WELCOME

Dear colleagues and friends,

We are pleased to announce the 8th Bosnian Turkish School of Cytopathology, set to take place online on May 25th, 2024. This event is a collaboration among the Turkish Division of the International Academy of Pathology (TDIAP), the Turkish Society of Cytopathology, and the Association of Basic Medical Sciences of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

This year, the School's focus shifts to the intricate fields of gastrointestinal and genitourinary cytopathology. We are honored to have a panel of distinguished cytopathologists and clinicians from Turkey, who will share their extensive expertise through a comprehensive curriculum designed to address both fundamental and advanced topics within these areas. The program aims to enrich the knowledge and skills of participants, particularly benefiting residents in pathology, young specialists, and clinicians by covering significant and practical aspects of gastrointestinal and genitourinary cytopathology.

We are confident that the School will exceed your expectations, offering valuable insights and fostering an environment conducive to active engagement. Your participation is key to the success of this school.

On behalf of the organizing committee,

Prof. Işinsu Kuzu, M.D., Ph.D.

President of the Turkish Division of the International Academy of Pathology (TDIAP)
